Chestnutting.

[New York Times.]
It is the opinion of Miss Anthony that the tyrant man has committed one of his worst outrages in monopolizing the sport of chestnut gathering. It cannot be denied that the female sex is virtually shut from that delightful pursuit. To gather chestnuts successfully involves climbing trees, and the mature woman or the full grown girl rarely cares to incur the risks which are inseparable from climbing in the present fashion of female dress. Of course, Dr. Mary Walker could gather chestnuts with impunity, but among women who have not put on—that is to say, who still wear skirts, there is a general feeling that stockings should not wave either from clothes lines or branches, unless they have been previously and carefully emptied. Nevertheless there are infrequent and exceptionally daring girls who indulge in the hazardous amusement of secret chestnutting, and the experience of a Massachusetts young lady who recently climbed a chestnut tree in Berkshire county, is worth narrating.

The young lady in question—and it is perfectly useless for anybody to offer twelve gratuitous teams of wild horses to assist in dragging the secret of her name to light—was remarkably beautiful, and was the object of the devoted attachment of two local young men, one of whom was a model of all possible virtues, while the other was a bold, bad youth, who was known to be in the habit of smoking, and who was believed to have more than once visited a circus. Early in October this young lady absconded her younger brother—aged 10—to accompany her on a chestnutting expedition. A chestnut tree, separated from the road by a narrow but dense belt of trees and bushes, was soon found, and the pair searched the ground for fallen nuts. The young lady—and perhaps we had better call her Miss Y., for the purpose of identification, as the lawyers say—soon grew weary of this occupation, and determined to climb the tree. With the aid of a fence rail and the zealous "boosting" of her brother, she succeeded in reaching the lowest branch, from which her progress was easy. Pleased with her success, she soon grew careless, and finally ventured out upon a limb until it bent under her weight. Becoming frightened, she lost her presence of mind and her hold, and suddenly fell. Fortunately, she did not fall far, for her skirts caught in a fork of the limb and suspended her between heaven and earth in the attitude of an umbrella which has struggled with a violent gust of wind and experienced a reverse.

Her voice though somewhat smothered by the peculiarities of her situation, could be easily heard by her astonished brother, and in accordance with her calm directions that devoted small boy instantly fled for help. Now, it so happened that each of the young lady's lovers had noticed her as she started from home in company with her brother, and each had independently determined to meet her as if by accident. Thus it fell out that the first person the small boy met as he rushed along the road was the mild young man, who listened to his incoherent tale and hastened to the rescue. No sooner, however, did he come within sight of the tree than he promptly paused, turned his back upon the object of his adoration, and in a faltering voice explained to the small boy that he thought his sister would not care to have him help her, but would prefer the assistance of a vague servant girl, in search of whom he professed himself ready to start. The small boy having no sense of delicacy whatever, called the good young man names, and said he was afraid to climb a tree, but failed to shake his resolution. So the latter started on a run to find his hypothetical servant girl, and unlike Lot's wife, refused to look back, though the indignant small boy sent a shower of stones after him. Meanwhile, the bold, bad young man was approaching the scene of action, "cross-lots," at the top of his speed. His iron nerves did not falter even when he reached the tree that temporarily bore such marvelous fruit. Requesting the young lady to calm herself and trust him to rescue her, he armed her brother with a knife, and instructed him to climb the tree and cut his sister loose. The small boy, hailing with delight the opportunity to cut something, did as he was bid, and in a few moments, there was a noise of rending garments, the young lady dropped safely into the bold, bad lover's extended arms. Half an hour afterward eleven women, bearing five step-ladders, approached the tree, while the good young man waited behind the bushes to receive his rescued mistress. It is needless to say he was disappointed, and his disappointment was still greater when he was subsequently told that she was to be married at an early day to his bold and bad rival. Thus we see that, as Solomon might have said, there is a time for step-ladders and a time for decided action, and that the bold young man gathers his bride from a chestnut tree, while the simple-minded man flees afar off and howls for servant girls who are useless, and for the step-ladder which satisfieth not.

TURKISH WAR NOTES.—The Moscow Gazette states that the Russian main army is advancing on Ezeroum. A special from Tiflis reports that immediately after the capture of Kars 15,000 Russians under General Melikoff started for Ezeroum. A Constantinople telegram reports that the Russians summoned Mukhtar Pasha to surrender Ezeroum, but the place will be held to the last extremity, by order of the Sultan. All Saib telegraphs from Scutari that 40,000 Montenegrins, who attacked position defending the road from Scutari to Scutari have been repulsed with a loss of 800 killed. Seventeen thousand men from the Kars army will be detached to assist at the siege of Plevna.

In the San Francisco Criminal Court Wednesday morning the charges of riot against Kearney and his fellow agitators were dismissed, the Court holding that no riotous conduct had been proven.

C. C. Terry stabbed a laborer named Patrick Kilroy in San Francisco Wednesday morning.

The Amended Silver Bill.

The Senate Finance Committee have made the following amendment to Bland's silver bill:

In lieu of the free coinage clause heretofore stricken out, an amendment offered by Allison was adopted providing that a fund of $5,000,000 in United States legal tender notes shall be set apart by the Secretary of the Treasury for the purpose of purchasing bullion and getting the new coin into circulation, as follows: "The Department is required by the terms of this amendment to purchase silver bullion to the amount of not less than $3,000,000 and not exceeding $4,000,000 each month and coin the same into silver dollars, which are to be exchanged for an equal amount of legal tender notes, and the legal tender notes thus received by the Treasury are to go into the special fund above described, and the purchase and coinage of bullion is to be continued in this way indefinitely."

Jones voted in the negative holding that this amendment would not practically effect the operations of the bill in any way, nor make it more acceptable to either of the two parties on the subject. The bill as amended has been adopted by the Finance Committee as their report. The New York papers strongly oppose the bill as it now stands and urge the President to veto it. As the bill now stands it would seem that we are to have a triple legal tender instead of a dual one, such as now exists. We do not understand this bill or it certainly contains objectionable features. It does not tend to a staple resumption of specie payment since the majority of the Senate Finance Committee refused to limit the legal tender quality of the proposed silver coinage and prescribe its uses, nor does it protect the pledge of the Government to the foreign bondholder of six per cent. bonds. It may be a question now whether the above amendment is not a compromise with the inflationist. It is our view that a gradual resumption of specie payment is far better than resumption at a particular date. If we could call in $3,500,000 in currency each month it would be only ten years until greenbacks would be a legal tender of the past. The country awaits with great interest the action of the Senate and President in this most important bill. The bill is not yet what the country wants.

The opposition to the confirmation of Judge Harlan, says a Washington telegram, is looking serious. Edmunds opposes him because he voted for McClellan. Harlan's friends confess this, but say he has always been a Republican.

What has Harlan's voting for Little Mac. to do with his qualifications for the position of Associate Justice on the Supreme Bench? What the nation desires is that men shall be appointed to office because they have the qualifications required to fill that particular office. Civil service reform demand this.

The Judiciary is designed to be a separate branch of the Government; it should also be separated completely from politics, nor is it proper to appoint the judges from different States in the Union simply to satisfy those States from which appointments may be made. To be a member of the Supreme Bench should be considered above the office of President. The Justice holds office during good behavior. He may be like Taney or Marshall and live through a number of administrations, wherefore the propriety then of his being appointed because he is a Republican or a Democrat? It is well that the President appoint the Justices, but his appointment should be controlled by the members of the Bench, and the Senate's confirmation should be a matter of pure form, unless the President and the Court should openly seek to abuse their power.

TO BE HOPED.—Harry Mighels of the Carson Appeal is still incapacitated for duty by the disease affecting his eyes. We hope he may quickly recover and resume his old time occupation.—Footlight.

Mighels' eyes are in good condition, but his internal rigging is considerably out of repair. His wife is his amanuensis, and thus Harry fills the editorial page. Rev. S. P. Kelly builds the Appeal's locals. Mighels, we are informed, will be at his post in about a week.

Great men are spoken of for seventy-five days.

Proclamation of Thanksgiving.

The President of the United States having, by proclamation, designated Tuesday, the twenty-ninth day of November, as a day of public thanksgiving and praise, I, L. R. Bradley, Governor of the State of Nevada, recommend the people of this State to devote that day in rendering thanks to Almighty God for the many blessings we have received at His hands.

In testimony whereof, I have heretofore set my hand and caused the great seal of the State to be affixed. Done at Carson City, Nevada, this sixteenth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven. By the Governor.

L. R. BRADLEY.
J. D. MINOR, Secretary of State.
The above has been issued in circular form, and is a precise copy of the proclamation of last year. No record of the same appears in the Secretary of State's office, and the supposed attestation of Secretary Minor was done without his knowledge or consent. Now the question occurs: Is the document a legal one?—Carson Tribune.

Very few people care whether it is legal or not. Governor Bradley has several days at his disposal. The work of going through the formalities of a Thanksgiving proclamation is much less now than a few years ago. Gov. Van Zant of Rhode Island, issued a very short Thanksgiving proclamation. Gov. Cullom of Illinois follows in the following strain:

"I therefore call upon the citizens of Illinois to assemble in their places of religious worship, and around their fire-sides, to make this a holiday, a day of rest and festivity, not forgetting its religious observance; but, above all, a day for the re-remembering of scattered kindred, in order to the closer knitting of those domestic ties which are the pledge and ground of national union and prosperity."

McCulloch's Views.

In the last number of the North American Review an ex-Secretary of the Treasury gives his views on the resumption of specie payments, of which the following is a synopsis by the S. E. Chronicle:

Mr. McCulloch, while attributing all the great financial troubles which have occurred in the United States to a plethora of paper money and favoring a steady contraction of the currency, is evidently very doubtful whether the pledge of the government to redeem its notes in gold on January 1, 1879, can be kept. "None but men of a highly sanguine temperament," he says, "can expect that specie payments can be resumed and maintained with six hundred millions of paper money in circulation." And again, "there can be no reliable resumption until the gold coin in the country approximates much more closely than it now does to the paper in circulation." He would not repeal the Resumption Act, for he considers the repeal of it would be more creditable than the failure literally to comply with it; but he would gradually fund the outstanding legal tenders into four and a half per cent. bonds, and after which they should cease to be a legal tender.

The President is understood to have said that he would not have minded half so much if Conkling and his Senatorial followers had rejected, outright, the objectionable nominations instead of pocketing them and indulging in underhand jugglery to delay any action. The latter course was one of marked disrespect to the President, and he is reported to be a little vindictive about the matter. The course of the New York Senator is not such as to gather about him that support required to make his leadership effective. His underhand mode of delaying action on the President's appointments does not exhibit the fineness of a Richelieu, and is beneath the dignity of an American statesman.

The General Deficiency Bill has been recommended to the House committee on appropriations. It was understood that the expense items for the Louisiana and the San Francisco mint investigation committees would have been bitterly opposed by Butler and Knott.

Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier Journal, made his first appearance in New York as a lecturer at Chickering Hall Tuesday evening. The event was apparently one of great interests in social and professional circles, as it attracted an audience which almost filled the hall and which in point of character was very far above the average lecture audience. The World says: "Mr. Watterson was introduced by Parke Goodwin and greeted with enthusiastic applause. His lecture abounded in good points, humorous and serious being happily interwoven."

Funeral of Young Blakeley.

The funeral of young Joseph Blakeley, the victim of the shooting-gallery accident, took place from the Methodist Episcopal Church at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The attendance was very large, and many were unable to obtain seats or standing room in the church. Noticeable in the congregation were the children of the First and Third Ward schools, who attended in a body. The services opened with a hymn by the choir, after which followed a brief address by the Rev. Mr. McKelvey, pastor of the church. After the address the children filed up the center aisle to take a last look at their schoolmate. The body rested in a neat casket, and as the children passed they dropped their floral tributes upon the coffin, some of them weeping bitterly. Six young lads, who had been intimate friends of the deceased, acted as pall-bearers. It was after 4 o'clock when the procession formed, and there were nearly 300 children in line. The deceased had been attending the Third Ward school and the scholars from Miss Dunlap's and Mr. Willis's department wore black and white crapes on their arms. Mr. Osbiston and wife were present at the grave—both very much affected. Little Joe had been a constant attendant of the M. E. Sunday school for eight years, and his honesty and purity of character are spoken of in warm terms of praise by all of his associates. —Virginia Chronicle, 21st.

Who was the Lawyer?

The following extract from the New York Times appeared in the Virginia Enterprise of Wednesday's issue:

There is a great deal of nature in the far West. The people out there partake of it to a degree that makes them interesting as studies. They present a fine contrast to the routine and conventionalism of the Eastern States, where we think of doing what they do impulsively.

A week or two since, in Washoe county, Nevada, a gentleman, formerly from this region, now interested in silver mines, was summoned as a witness in a lawsuit, along with his wife, a lady of culture and refinement. They both gave testimony in the case, in which they had no personal interest; but their evidence, simple and straightforward, was so damaging to the other side that the opposing counsel elected to use his utmost endeavor to discredit them, treating them as if they were notorious malefactors. The gentleman bore the hectoring, browbeating and exasperating insinuations of the lawyer with tolerable patience while directed to himself; but when they were used towards his wife he asked the protection of the court, which was refused, the court declaring that counsel had not exceeded his privilege. Then the husband notified the lawyer that he should hold him personally responsible for his language if he continued it toward the lady. This yielded a much-coveted opportunity to the pettifogger, who swelled like a turkey cock, proclaiming that "we are not to be intimidated by threats of assassination;" that "the ends of justice must be served, come what may," etc. He then fell upon the poor lady more brutally than ever, the court finally feeling bound to interfere. She retired from the stand in tears, and, trembling with nervous excitement, withdrew on her husband's arm.

We find that no case of the above description has been tried in Washoe county. The article either has application elsewhere, or illustrates the fact that editors East are closely related to those of the West.

THE TURKO-RUSSIAN WAR.—The Chicago Times' London special says that the leading turcophile newspapers here demand that England shall declare war at once against Russia. They say if the English people are bent on sacrificing their renown among the nations as well as their widespread dominions because Turkey is not better governed than Russia then no warning, nor writing on the wall will avail to save them. Russia has now virtually conquered America; Persia next falls under her domination; the ways to the east, west and South are open; India will thrill with suppressed excitement which no famine subscriptions will calm; the czar is on the road to the Dardanelles, and the England of Nelson and Pitt sits watching the drama in a state of sentimental decision. There is much excitement among the trading English turcophile, but the masses are quiet.

The Winnemucca Silver State says: Crime has been the bane of the taxpayers of Humboldt county. Last Summer the jail was crowded with prisoners, and the expense of keeping, prosecuting and defending them cost the county $15,000. The average expense of murder cases within the last two years has been $3,000 each, while burglaries and grand larcenies average about $1,000 each.

Washington Union; A wild-eyed youth rushed in yesterday, to tell us that he had just discovered the meaning of this talk about tenure of office, etc. He said it means that if you are not fixed tenure position pretty firmly, the chances are nine out of ten removed to make room for some other fellow.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Jottings.

The Supreme Court has adjourned for the term.

H. M. Yerington went below last night.

Ninety-eight bars of bonanza bullion traveled westward last night.

By the conduct of the weather clerk one is led to suspect the early appearance of a snow storm in Reno.

The Union Pacific authorities are waging war on the three-card monte sharks.

How do you like the Ophir horse? Not a mustang after all. He played that he was Job's war horse to-day, and frightened the bears slightly.

The chief, who has tarried on California soil for the past week will probably put in an appearance tomorrow morning.

We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to attend to opening party of the Au Fajt Club to be held tomorrow evening at Theater Hall, Carson.

Mr. Jamison has placed on those new shelves in his store a variety of handsome notions, among which we notice flower vases, moustache cups, wine and toilet sets, cigar stands, etc.

Messrs. Grey & Isaacs have an elegant stock of drygoods and fancy articles. Those choice muffs, heavy cloaks, etc., attract the ladies eyes; while those nice dolls please the little girls.

Morris & Frankenfield's former barber shop has been partitioned into two rooms. Dr. T. J. Johnson will occupy one, as his office; Mr. S. Berwin will use the other for a tailor shop.

Mr. C. A. Hoyt went to Sacramento last night. He will probably accept a pleasant berth in the Capitol, in which case he will take up his residence in that place.

J. C. Brookins & Co. have just laid in a large stock of candies, toys, stationery, etc. They have a new, patent mullage bottle which is just what you want.

CONCERT.—Professor Rutan's class will give a grand vocal and instrumental concert this evening at the Methodist church. The Professor has shown great diligence, as well as skill, in bringing his class to their present proficiency in musical execution. He has been blind since quite a boy, but his tastes were for music, and despite the great embarrassment under which he labors, has become an adept in music. This evening he will show to our citizens what he can do with a class of boys and girls in a few short weeks. The programme is an excellent one, and should draw a full house. Admission 50 cents.

COMPLETE SUCCESS.—A telegram to Mr. C. T. Bender, from Mr. P. A. Humbert, says: "Furnace complete success." The furnace alluded to is a new one of a tried patent which has just been put up by Messrs. Humbert & Winterburn at the Nevada Quick-silver mine. In about one week we shall expect to hear that quicksilver is being obtained at this mine.

IMPORTANT DECISION.—Judge Rising, of the First Judicial District, rendered a very important decision last Tuesday on a very interesting point in lien law. As the decision is one of much interest and of length, as well as not easily accessible to most of our readers, we will give its salient points in to-morrow's issue.

SOIREE.—Scott's soiree this evening at the Opera House will be a very enjoyable affair. Professor Bock will assist Mr. Scott. This is sufficient to ensure excellent music. Take your partner and have a pleasant dance. Those who wish to attend the concert will have ample time afterwards to attend the soiree.

The case of the Italians, Morella and Manvelli, is being argued this afternoon in the District Court. The case will go to the jury this evening and be decided it is thought to-night. Some presume that the jury will hang. Should this case be determined this evening court will adjourn for this term.

Heworth's Hibernica, a comedy troupe, will be here on the 10th and 11th proximo. This troupe bears a good name.

Baked trout for breakfast at the Saddle Rock.

JULIEN'S AMENDMENT.—The Women's National Suffrage Association has heard of Tom Julien's proposed 16th amendment to the Constitution, and have called a "sixteenth amendment convention" of all the woman suffrage associations in the United States, to be held in Washington, January 8th, 1878, to consider the afore-said amendment. Thus we see that even the notice of a bill in the Reno Congressional Lyceum is creating a stir among the females of masculine proclivities in the great East. Julien proposes to go to Washington, he says, to celebrate the battle of New Orleans, but Waldo says that Tom received a telegram from Mrs. Madame Anthony E. Pitt Stevens to join her on the 2d of January for a trip to the national capital, where she assures him that he shall preside over the hen convention. Mrs. Julien is to know nothing about the affair. Little did we think this of T. V.; but the heart of man is after glory and above all things desperately inclined to stand in even with the fair daughters of an eligible age.

WATER COLD WATER.—The temperance meeting last night at the Baptist church was well attended. The singing was good and the addresses of Prof. Holmes and Rev. Jno. Thompson were well received. The latter gentleman was compelled to tell his story about Adam and Mary, and finally wound up by advising the gentlemen to go home and bore two-inch auger holes in the parlor mantle or fire-board. He should have wrung in another good one he has about the Catholic priest at Virginia City.

ONCE MORE UNFORTUNATE.—Mabel Gray, who was convicted of vagrancy before Judge Garthe, of this city, and sentenced to the county jail for ninety days, has been pardoned by Governor Irwin. A petition was sent to the Governor, and he pardoned her on condition that she leave the State. She has served out about one-half of her time. She left here on the 4 o'clock train yesterday for Reno.—Nev. Transcript, Nov. 21st.

Will the persecutions of the righteous never cease? Molly Forsyth has departed, the hurdy den is closed and peace reigns; but now we are once more unfortunate.

The Reno Gazette talks about the the State deriving revenue from the railroad lands in Nevada. The young man is evidently not posted. The title of these lands is still in the Government, and the Railroad Company has never paid a dime in taxes on any part of them.—Eureka Sentinel.

The middle-aged man is evidently not posted. The C. P. R. R. has this year paid taxes on a considerable body of their lands in Washoe and Humboldt counties, and we believe in Elko county also. It is true that on a part of their lands they have no patent, of course on these they pay no tax.

The Pittsburg (Pa.) Grand Jury has made its report and finds that crime does not alone exist on the side of the rioters during the recent strikes. It holds that the proclamation published over Gov. Hartranft's signature was not authorized by him, and that the killing of 22 citizens on the first Saturday of the troops firing without orders, was nothing short of wilful murder. Curious Grand Jury.

WATTY.—The Carson Appeal thus abuses a former restaurant stand-by of Reno:

That boy Watty, at the Ormsby, ought to be suppressed. Since he displayed the knowledge of scripture on the subject of the wicket gate, he has been consulted by several prominent spiritualists and desired to give his experience. It has been admitted for some time in Reno that he is a test medium. His seances at the English mill were well attended and we have no doubt that if he could be persuaded to form a circle in Carson, it would be well attended. Watty, don't hide your light under a bushel.

A Quaker Trick.

When a stranger has climbed four pairs of stairs and made a half dozen turns, he finds himself at the door of the chief editorial room of the Philadelphia Bulletin. Max Adler sits just inside, and as the stranger enters he is seated at Adler's right hand. He is seated in an old-fashioned splint-bottomed chair, the bottom of which has gone to look for the dust of the pilgrim fathers. There's a newspaper spread over the vacant spot, and Mr. Adler cheerfully remarks:

"Sit right down—fine day—when did you arrive?"

The man sits down. If he is a small man he sits on the floor, his feet slant toward the ceiling, his knees dig into his throat, and his back is dreadfully bent, while his hat is jammed over his eyes.

"Well through eh?" inquires Mr. Adler, as he looks around. "How do you like Philadelphia?"

The stranger struggles, finds himself fast, and asks to be extricated. He is politely informed that it is against the rules of the office to extricate any one who falls through the chair in which Artimus Ward used to sit, and is just in the condition he left it.

"Does Philadelphia come up to your ideas?" kindly inquires Mr. Adler as he opens another exchange.

The stranger sits to work to burst that chair or break his back, but he can do neither. He thinks the joke has been carried far enough, but is informed that it is not a joke—that no man around that office was ever more sober in his life.

The visitor tries to laugh, and remarks that five minutes more will finish his spinal column.

"Oh, no it won't," replies Mr. Adler. "Why, I have known men who were on the verge of the grave to live in your position for one hour and sixteen minutes!"

After a quarter of an hour or more Mr. Adler calls in three more editors and introduces them to the stranger, and they want to know if he is pleased with Philadelphia, and if he has any hard feelings against the memory of William Penn. Five minutes is then spent in debating whether the victim can be extracted under a suspension of the rules. The vote is a tie, and the city editor is called in to cast a ballot. He makes a speech, explaining his reasons for voting "yes," and after twenty-five minutes have passed away the stranger is released, a photograph of William Penn given him and he is told that any street car line will take him to the Centennial grounds.—Detroit Free Press.

Our trade with Brazil is said to have picked up remarkably since March, when the new line of steamers from New York began their trips. The export thither of watches is particularly notable, American make being preferred to the English.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, in and for the county of Washoe. The State of Nevada sends to Hill & Oakes, Appelloni, Luigi Dellapiga, Albert Mau, G. W. Mapes and B. F. Sheldon, greeting: You are hereby required to appear in an action commenced against you as defendants, by A. D. Sisson, W. W. Wallace and Clark Crocker, copartners, under name of Sisson, Wallace & Co., as plaintiffs, in the District Court of the Second Judicial District of the State of Nevada, county of Washoe, State of Nevada, and answer the complaint therein, within ten days after the service on you of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, if served in said county, or twenty days if served out of said county, but within said District, and in all other cases forty days; or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint. The said action is brought to recover $628.78, with interest, all in U. S. gold coin, from defendants, Hill & Oakes, alleged to be due for lumber and material furnished them by the Reno Lumber Company, and to foreclose and determine a mechanics lien, claimed against lots one and two in block P, on the corner of Virginia and Second streets, in the town of Reno, county of Washoe, State of Nevada, and the frame buildings thereon. Plaintiffs allege an assignment of said defendants' lien to plaintiffs, that defendants Torrell, Dellapiga, Mau, Mapes and Sheldon, have or claim to have, some interest in the property and that the materials furnished for the construction of the buildings aforesaid, and with the knowledge of the defendants last named, and that they are to give notice in writing by posting within three days after obtaining knowledge that they would not be responsible for such materials. Plaintiff prays judgment of foreclosure and for personal judgment against Hill & Oakes; all of which will more fully appear from the complaint, which is on file in the office of the Clerk of said court at Reno, in said county. And you are further notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, the said plaintiffs will apply to the court for the relief demanded.

In testimony whereof, I, P. B. Comstock, Clerk of said court, this 26th day of July, A. D. 1877, at the County Recorder's office, at the Court House, Reno, Nevada, do hereby certify.

P. B. COMSTOCK, Clerk.

WATCHES!! JEWELRY!!

ROMAINE GOLD.
S. R. RICHMOND, WORKS IN PARIS. His watch was first discovered in 1850, by the celebrated French chemist, M. D. De Dange, who manufactured it into jewelry, and for five years sold it to the leading jewelers of Paris for $100 each. In 1855, when his secret became known, ten of the manufacturing jewelers established a stock company, with a capital of $100,000 for the purpose of manufacturing Romaine Gold Jewelry and Watches. With this immense capital and the aid of improved machinery, they are enabled to produce all the latest patterns of jewelry at less than one-tenth the cost of solid gold, and of a quality and color which makes it impossible even for experts to detect it from the genuine.

We have secured the exclusive agency of the United States and Canada, for the sale of all goods manufactured from this metal, and in order to introduce them in the most speedy manner, have put up assorted sample lots as given below, which we will sell at one-tenth the retail value until January 1st, 1878. DR. L. J. CZAPKAY'S
Private Medical Institute.
309, Kearney Street, San Francisco.
Established in 1854.
For the Permanent Cure of all Special and Chronic Diseases, as well as all Female Complaints and Diseases of the Nervous System.

To the Afflicted:
Dr. L. J. Czapkey would most respectfully inform the public of the Pacific coast that, at the earnest solicitation of his numerous friends, and hundreds of the unfortunately afflicted with disease, he has reopened his MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE and resumed the practice of his profession. The Doctor would remind all those who have need of medical aid, that since relinquishing his very extensive and successful practice in San Francisco, he has visited the principal cities in Europe, inspecting diligently the experience of the most learned in the profession, the benefit from which he offers to all in need of his services. Rheumatic affections, chronic catarrh, diseases of the stomach and kidneys, liver complaints, etc., successfully treated. Those who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, physical and mental debility, are assured of a permanent cure. Charges moderate. All communication strictly confidential. Medicines sent by express. Address,
